

New position: Senior Research & Publications Manager

The Asian Corporate Governance Association (ACGA) is an independent, non-profit association based in Hong Kong. Over the years ACGA has made a name for itself as the region's foremost organisation carrying out research, advocacy, and education on corporate governance in 12 major Asia-Pacific capital markets. It has built an influential membership base of more than 110 blue-chip corporations, global and regional pension funds, asset managers, accounting and insurance firms, and other entities with a commitment to enhancing corporate governance in this region. ACGA's investor members alone manage more than US$26 trillion in assets globally.

We are looking for an experienced writer, editor and communicator with a deep interest in corporate governance and ESG to take up a new role as our Senior Research & Publications Manager. Reporting directly to the Secretary General of ACGA, the role is full-time, based in Hong Kong, and includes the following key functions:

- Taking over research coverage for one to two North Asian markets.
- Providing editorial and production support for our bimonthly newsletter, the Asia Regional Briefing; our biennial regional survey, CG Watch; and our new website.
- Contributing to the development of new ACGA research products and enhancing member value.
- Providing research input into other ACGA activities, such as advocacy and events.
- Speaking at ACGA and public events on our research findings.

In addition to excellent writing, editing and communication skills, this role requires someone with publication management capability. A willingness to travel is essential and fluency in an Asian language would be an advantage.

Salary is commensurate with experience and negotiable. We also offer competitive benefits, including a bonus scheme, pension, medical, and annual leave. The role also carries opportunities for promotion.

Please send a cover letter with detailed resume, current and expected salary to:
